

Amendments to the Abstract:

Please replace the current abstract on the last separate page of the specification with the following paragraph as the abstract:

In a method of automatically displaying medical measurement data, a computer receives medical measurement data, automatically, in real time, converts the received measurement data into data for histograms, and outputs the converted data as picture signals. A readout (10) displays histogram columns (12) and a cumulative curve (14).